THOS. J. BEESON, JR., IS CAUSE OF JOLLY GATHERING

Thomas Jefferson Beeson, Jr., was the cause of much ado last Sunday, September 5, the event being the receipt of a name, and in return he gave a receipt, through his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Beeson, Sr., in the form of a jolly good time to those who attended the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. R. Boone were godfather and godmother to Thomas, Jr. After the christening a supmtuous luncheon was served to the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. Victor Hughes, Santa Barbara; Mr. and Mrs. O. Harding, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Stitt and Dorothy and Elizabeth Stitt, Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. William Souig, San Francisco; Mr. and Mrs. Ackerman, Oakland; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ford, Mr. and Mrs. Williamson, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Butler, Mr. and Mrs. R. Boone, Dana and Minnie Kern, Arthur Dalton, Dr. Rankin, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Beeson, Daly City; Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Miller, San Francisco.

The table was beautifully decorated with baby roses and ferns, and the favors were little pink baby shoes filled with candy. A most enjoyable time was had by all.

M'GOVERN IN STATEMENT OF APPRECIATION

The following statement of thanks and appreciation to the voters of this county for re-electing him to the office of sheriff has been issued by Sheriff T. C. McGovern:

"Editor, The Record,
"Daly City, Calif.,
"Dear Sir:

"Kindly permit me, through the columns of your paper, to thank the voters of San Mateo county for the wonderful support given me at recent primary election for office of sheriff. Both to my opponent and to those who sought to vote otherwise I have the kindest of feelings.

"Particularly do I want to thank my loyal friends all over the county for the gracious efforts made in my behalf during the time I was incapacitated on account of an unfortunate accident.

"To the people of San Mateo county I pledge myself never to betray the confidence and trust placed in me."

WIVES OF STATE LOSE IN COMMUNITY LAW RULING

California wives have no "present vested interest" in community property acquired prior to 1923, according to a decision handed down Thursday by the State Supreme Court.

The decision affects vitally the long battle of Californians to the right for a separate income tax return by husbands and wives, and seriously imperils $100,000,000 in taxes claimed to be in excess already paid into the United States treasury.

The court made no reference to a constitutional amendment adopted in 1923, designed to strengthen the previous community property law, on the ground that no case arising since this amendment went into effect has been presented. On this ground, lawyers expressed the belief that taxes paid in claimed excess since that time might yet be ordered refunded.

The decision follows closely upon an adverse ruling by the Supreme Court of the United States, which was generally held here to discriminate against Californians as against citizens of other states having community property laws.

MAYOR TO SPEAK AT P. T. A. RECEPTION SEPTEMBER 27

Mayor Smith of Daly City will speak at the teachers' reception which will be given by the P. T. A. on the fourth Monday of this month. Both the mayor and his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Owens together with the parents are to be guests at this reception.

Mrs. Owens remarked at the last P. T. A. meeting that Jefferson High School was an ideal place to entertain the San Mateo Federation of P. T. A.

The P. T. A. is to have the State theater October the fifth and the members are making plans for the program. The high school will also put on a few acts. Prizes will be given by the P. T. A. and the State theater on this night.

The members of the committee to take charge of this affair are: Mrs. Taggart, chairman; Mrs. Brush, Mr. Clark, Mr. Bently, and Mr. Gehringer.

Mrs. W. L. Crawford and daughter Mrs M. Ratto are spending a month at Hot Springs, New Mexico, where Mrs. Crawford hopes to regain her health.

CYRILE DU JARDIN PASSES AWAY TUESDAY A. M.

Cyrile Du Jardin, of 13 Los Banos avenue, passed away at 10 a. m. Tuesday. The funeral was held at 8.45 a. m. today from the new mortuary chapel of W. C. Lasswell & Co., and thence to St. Maximus' church. The funeral services were attended by the officers and members of the Colma-Vista Grande Aerie No. 1848, F. O. E., of which he was a member. He leaves his wife, Jane Du Jardin. The deceased was a native of Belgium.

ARRESTED AND HELD ON BOND FOR USING GUN

It is reported that Otto Killmeir, countrty store owner of Salada Beach, was arrested by Constable S. A. Landini, and held under bail of $1500 by Judge Farrell this week, on the complaint of P. Polas, a candy vender, who claims to have been shot at by Killmeir, while standing in front of the latter's place of business. Killmeir admits shooting at the wagon of Polas, it is stated, but only to scare him away, as Polas is said to have insisted in selling his wares outside of Killmeir's store. Polas was uninjured.

NO PROOF OF ASSAULT— NOT GUILTY —RELEASED

Robert Benzon, who has been held on a charge of assault to murder following the shooting of Joseph Martini, Colma restaurant proprietor, early in June, was at liberty Saturday. The charge was dismissed when he appeared for hearing before Justice of the Peace Ray Griffin, because of lack of evidence and his release from the county jail was ordered by the court.

Benzon was thought to have been a member of the Gough street bandit gang which was responsible for the shooting and attempted holdup.

M'LAREN FETE DAY CHANGED— MANY FEATURES

"John McLaren Day," to be observed at Tanforan racetrack. has outstripped all preliminary plans.

This announcement was made yesterday by officials in charge of the affair, who declared that preparation for a highly augmented program of events requires additional time. As a result, the announcement said, the day will be observed on Sunday, September 19, instead of next Sunday, as originally planned.

The day is to be observed as part of a project to raise $100,000 for creation of McLaren lake in Golden Gate park as a permanent testimonial to the creator of the world-famous playground.

Fire fighting by picked crews from the San Francisco department, with all the spectacular quality of a real fire, will be one of the many features of the program

There will be a contest by two crews in coupling hose and getting to the roof of the structure and there will be a rescue demonstration with thrilling leaps from the fire into life-saving nets.

STUDENTS RECEIVE "A" AND "B" FOR FIRST SEMESTER

Those students on the honor roll for the first semester of school are: Rosemary Reed and Anna Tromberg.

The students on the college preparatory list are: Pauline Aiello, Charles Aiello, Alfred Banfield, Miriam Bentley, Lida Casentini, Oriel Fischer, Vivian Gibbs, Shirley Gilley, Martha Johnson, Lawrence Kennedy, Norman Kennedy, Mildred Lindquist, John Muller, Fred Milhauser, Harold Martin, Chester McGrath, Charles Nelson, Paul Passaglia, Viola Rehaume, Irene Smith, Henry Suenderman, Francis Stark, Will Sweeney, Angelo Stampanoni, Elizabeth Saame, Mildred Swan, Donald Smith, Jeanette Taggart, Delilah Valdivia, Nellie Van Hensden, Paul Williams.

Last Monday Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Canine left for Colorado Springs, Colo., where Mr. Canine will attend the annual convention of the International Typographical Union as a delegate from San Mateo Typographical Union No. 624. During Mr. Canine's absence, Mr. W. M. McGregor will see that the Record is issued regularly.

LOYAL CALIFORNIANS OBSERVE THE SEVENTY-SIXTH BIRTHDAY OF THE STATE

September 9 was Admission Day, the seventy-sixth anniversary of California's admittance into the Sisterhood of States.

Admission Day is a legal holiday, so declared by act of the State Legislature. Out of respect to California, all business ceased and all schools were closed yesterday.

By common consent, arrangements for Admission Day's observance long ago were delegated to the orders of Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West. This year the main celebration was held at Sacramento, but fitting programs were arranged in numerous other localities. The people, in general, participated in these festivities, and thereby showed their appreciation of California and of the pioneers who made this state possible.

Why Admission Day? Because, historically, it is to this state what Independence Day, or July 4th, is to the nation.

California has the unique distinction of being the only state, other than the original thirteen, permitted to get into the Union without serving a probationary term as a territory.

California was never a territory. For a brief period it was a republic, which accounts for the existence of the cherished California Republic Flag, often referred to as the "Bear Flag',, and now the official flag of the state. Soon after the hoisting of the "Bear Flag," the American Flag was raised and possession taken of California in the name of the United States.

In due time, the people of California formed a state government and elected a full corps of officials, including two United States Senators and two Representatives. These latter were sent to Washington to demand from Congress the admission of California as a full-fledged state. Much opposition developed, because of the slave controversy, but eventually California got into the Union, the enabling act being signed September 9, 1850, nearly a year after the state government began functioning.

The history of California—the reason for the observance of Admission Day—is briefly summed up in the Great Seal of the State: The thirty-one stars indicate that California was the thirty-first state admitted into the Union. The robed goddess-in-arms signifies that, Minerva-like, California came, full-armed and without territorial childhood, into the Family of the Nation. The Eureka reminds that the Pioneer, having traversed the breadth of a continent, at last found, in California, the wealth and beauty of all the world.—The Grizzly Bear.

PROBE DROPPED IN AUTO DEATH OF MENLO BOY

Investigation into the death of 4-year-old John Delaney of Menlo park, was at an end Saturday following a presentation of evidence to District Attorney Franklin Swart. All principals in the mystery death of the boy appeared at the hearing, following which District Attorney Swart announced that no criminal action would be taken by his office.

Evidence presented showed that although the automobile of Mrs. Mabel Nitsche may have run over the child she was unaware that the accident had happened until she was told of it upon her return home.

NEW OFFICERS ARE ELECTED BY G. A. A.

Active members of the G. A. A. met last Wednesday, to vote for the candidates of their choice. The new G. A. A. officers are as follows: President, Helen Smith; Vice-President, Eva Johnson; Secretary-Treasurer, Oriel Fischer; Hockey Manager, Marcella Savage; Volleyball Manager, La Moile Le Meteyer; Swimming Manager, Margaret Twestón; Soccer Manager, Marie Walker.

The girls voted that the three amendments brought up in their previous meeting be added to their constitution.

I hereby extend my heartfelt appreciation to my many friends for the loyal support given me during my campaign for assemblyman and for the confidence and honor you have bestowed upon me.—Signed—Harry L. Parkman.

MAN IN GIRL ATTACK FREE ON $2000 BOND

Frank Chevalier of Burlingame was at liberty yesterday on $2,000 cash bail after his arrest Sunday on a warrant charging him with having attacked Miss Mary B. Crettar, pretty governess for a Hillsboro family.

The complaint, sworn to by Miss Crettar alleged that Chevalier late in August met her at the Burlingame car station and induced her to go for a ride with him. He took her to the skyline boulevard, she charged, and attacked her.

The warrant was issued by Justice of the Peace Josephine M. Lamb, August 31, but was not served until Sunday because Chevalier had been absent from home.

DALY CITY GIRL IS REPORTED MISSING

Benjamin Mangiosa, 726 Niantic Avenue, Daly City, reported to the police Wednesday that his daughter Rosa, age 15, was missing and that he believed that she has been enticed away by a woman.

Rosa left home Wednesday morning to come to San Francisco for a pair of shoes, purchased by her father. She did not return and great anxiety is felt by the parents as to her safety.

In a radio talk for the benefit of a hospital, given in London by Will Rogers, famous American comedian, he gave England half the credit for Gertrude Ederle's feat in swimming the Channel. "After all," he said, "Britain furnished the beach for her to land on, otherwise she would be swimming yet."

STANLEY SEES GREAT FUTURE FOR DALY CITY

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley, residents of Spokane, Wash., were visitors at The Record office on Tuesday. Mr. Stanley represents one of the large paper houses in Spokane and he and his wife are on a pleasure trip in California. Mr. and Mrs. tSanley passed through Daly City several years ago and he remarked that Daly City had grown considerably since their last visit. He also made reference to the wonderful street improvements and predicted a bright future for Daly City.

CHAS. LENA LOSES FINGER IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Charles Lena, in company with M. Francis, T. Marino and J. Sueza, all of South San Francisco, was driving in a machine on Monday afternoon on the highway going towards Salada Beach, and in making a short turn in the road, the front wheel of their machine broke and all received injuries. They were taken to the South San Francisco hospital by Constable S. A. Landini, where it was found necessary to amputate one finger of Lena's, which had been badly severed. It is hoped that the rest of his hand can be saved.

P. T. A. MEETING ADVANCED TO MEET EMERGENCY

Mrs. W. J. Hayes, president of the second district, California Congress of Parents and Teachers, announces that the first regular meeting of the executive board will be held at the Hotel Bellevue, San Francisco, on Thursday, September 16, at 10:30 a. m. The meeting has been advanced one week due to the fact that the second Thursday of the month is a legal holiday. The chairman will outline plans for the work of the departments for the ensuing year.

J. C. WALLACE EXTENDS HIS APPRECIATION

It is with a deep sense of gratitude that I appreciate the loyalty of the many voters of the first township for the splendid support given me at the primary election. To the many friends who worked so energetically in my behalf I extend my heart full of thanks. It is with such loyalty and support and encouragement that imbues me with greater efforts to merit the confidence you repose in me. I would impress upon my supporters that they redouble their energy at the general election so as to make my re-election an overwhelming success.

Gratefully yours,
JAS. C. WALLACE.

GRACE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Subject for next Sabbath evening: "What do People Think of Me? Why?"

Your influence in the community is based on what the opinion of the general public is.

Last Sabbath evening the attendance was very good and the interest very marked, the music was exceptionally good, as Mr. Bonham played the cornet giving a special number which was very greatly enjoyed by all, he was accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Poole.

Mr. Bonham will help with the music each Sabbath evening and we hope that more may become interested in the music.

Mr. Lewis will have charge of the Christian Endeavor for next Sabbath evening at 7 o'clock and all the young people are invited to come and help with this part of the church work.

Remember that during September the names of all who attend will be registered and a grand showing will be made at the first service in October with the rally service in both Sunday school and public worship.

Good authorities state today that societies of high school and college students have been organized in Los Angeles and San Francisco and many other coast towns with this for the slogan:

No flag, no God and no country.

These societies are being organized by people with the Russian tendencies and it does not take one long to picture what the future holds for those who follow this teaching.

If you are interested in the future welfare of your city and its population then put your time and service in to the religious work.

You are invited to come here and we assure you of a real welcome when you come.

Chas. A. Gatchell, Minister. Phone Delaware 1544.

REDWOOD CITY MAN FOUND DEAD IN HOME

Lonesome, following estrangement from his wife and two children, Edward Freeman, 35, ended his life by turning on the gas in his residence on St. Francis avenue, Redwood City. His lifeless body was found by Chief of Police C. L. Collins and neighbors.

According to information gathered by Chief Collins, Freeman separated from his wife and two children a month ago and the latter three went to San Francisco to make their home. He addressed a note to John Pearson, a neighbor, in which he said he could no longer stand life and had decided to kill himself.

After placing the note under the door of Pearson's home, Freeman apparently went back to his own residence, carefully closed all the doors and windows, turned on the gas and calmly awaited the end. He had been dead about six hours when found at 8 o'clock.

The remains are now being held at the Redwood City Undertaking Parlors, where an inquest will be held by Coroner W. A. Brooke. The authorities are now trying to communicate with his mother, Mrs. M. J. Freeman and his wife, both of whom are now in San Francisco.

S. F. PRIMARY ELECTION RESULTS ARE IN JEOPARDY

Reported complaints against the operation of voting machines in San Francisco county evoked an echo in the state capitol Wednesday in the shape of information that no authoriation for the use of voting machines in San Francisco was on file with the secretary of state.

It having been pointed uot by the governor's office that the law requires approval of the use of such machines by the state voting machine commission before installation in any county, a search was launched for the report of the commission which aproved installation of the San Francisco machines. The state archives were ransacked all day, but no such report had been found up to Thursday night.

Secretary of State Frank Jordan, said he believed further search would uncover the missing document, but Governor Friend W. Richardson said no such report had been filed since he became governor. The state voting machine commission, he pointed out, consists of the governor, the secretary of state and the attorney general.

The law governing installation of voting machines stipulates that the report of the commission approving installation of any type of machine in any county must be filed with the secretary of state within thirty days after the machines have been examined and approved by the commission, and that the secretary of state must within five days after the filing of the report transmit notice of such approval to the supervisors of the county concerned.

Although Governor Richardson emphatically declared he had neither examined nor approved any voting machine while governor, he declined to discuss the question of whether absence of any legal authoriation for the use of the machines in San Francisco county would invalidate the August primary vote in that county, which gave a plurality of more than 9,000 to C. C. Young, the governor's chief opponent in the Republican gubernatorial contest.

FAVORS UNIFORM DRESS FOR ALL SCHOOL CHILDREN

"Uniform dress for High school girls is a very fine thing," declared Miss Hoover, Dean of girls, during an interview recently.

"White middies and blue skirts are the most practical for summer wear, while blue middies and blue skirts could be worn for the winter. At present the dress of the girls in Jefferson is very sensible, so that the wearing of uniforms would come from the common wish of the girls."

Uniform dress removes the distinction between the wealthy and poor students in a school and saves money spent for clothes. According to Miss Hoover, middies are easily laundered and practical.

A picnic and barbecue will be held Sunday at the Woodside Fire Dept's Park at Woodside by the Associated Firemen of San Mateo County. It will start at 12.00 a.m. At 2.00 p.m. A baseball game between the Woodstock and Burlingame dept's will start a tug of war between the Daly City and Half Moon Bay dept's will be held at 4.00 p. m. and the barbecue at 4:p. m. Games and dancing are also included on the very full program

General admission will be 50 cents and children under 12 free.

The Most Wonderful Book in the World

MORE than thirty million Bibles or Books of the Bible were sold or distributed in 1925.

Would you not love to have companion volumes to help you discover the treasures in that Wonderful Book?

SWEDENBORG

explained the Bible's practical application to daily life; how it describes the life hereafter; what the Bible parables mean when spiritually interpreted.

His theological works—as issued by himself—have been published by the Houghton Mifflin Co. in most modern translation from the original Latin, in the Rotch Edition of 32 volumes.

The first twenty give the spiritual sense of Genesis and Exodus as understood in Heaven; and volumes 26, 27, 28 give likewise the spiritual sense of the Book of Revelation.

Volume 29, Marriage Love, views from the union of the Divine Love and the Divine Wisdom the Law of Sex throughout all creation. It shows the crown and jewel of the Christian Religion, the union of one with one only. Price $2.00.

Volumes 30, 31, 32, contain a full statement of the True Christian Religion as revealed from Heaven. $3.00 the set.

The whole 32 volumes in half-morocco at $125; in buckram, $40.

The following are the best introductory books to the Revelations of SWEDENBORG. They are in large print, bound in buckram, and contain from 260 to 485 pages.

TITLES	PRICE
HEAVEN AND HELL from things heard and seen	$1.25
Angelic Wisdom Concerning—
THE DIVINE PROVIDENCE, which governs the Universe and the Heavens and the Hells, and the least as well as the greatest of all things in creation; and in the everyday life of man.	$1.25
THE DIVINE LOVE AND WISDOM, the profoundest book and revelation concerning God and His Creation ever written, first published in Latin at Amsterdam 1763; along with this is the "Intercourse Between the Soul and the Body" first published in Latin at London 1769.	$1.25
Price of all three at one time, including postage	$2.75

Who Was Swedenborg?

Emanuel Swedenborg, the son of a bishop, was the great Swedish scientist, philosopher and theologian, whose vast range caused Emerson to term him the mastodon of scholars. Dr. Parkes Cadman recently named him the Universal Genius.

Officially connected, by appointment of the King, with the great mining industry of Sweden, he mastered all the sciences of his time, and wrote the most useful books on metallurgy, minerals, geology, astronomy, and the human brain.

His life search was for the human soul. How his spiritual senses were opened, after he was 50 years of age, that he might reveal the human soul, the life after death, and the Bible itself, may be read in the above named, uplifting, useful books.

Miss Mary Wood, one of the most popular girls of Daly City younger set, recently became the bride of Angelo Devencenzi, 27 Leibig street. After a brief honeymoon the young couple will return to make their home in the Mission District.

WINDSHIELD STICKERS GREAT MENACE

Windshield stickers, the latest form of "travelers' tags," constitute a great menace to traffic security on the highways.

Tourists who plaster their windshields with tags of all descriptions are endangering their own lives as well as those of other motorists.

It is estimated that one third or more of the highway mishaps are due to this new motor fad and another large percentage to the overloading of cars by tourists. Overloading on sharp curves and running away down hill when parked on grades.

THE TELEPHONE COMPANY

How many people realize the amount of work and study necessary to keep a telephone system going? You go to your telephone and make a call. The operator and the system do the rest.

No matter how much machinery is required to operate a telephone system, or how scientifically it may be handled, what makes it worth while to the public is the human intelligence that keeps it going.

Back of the operator there is an organization whose business it is to see that there is some one always on hand to keep the service going in spite of accident, flood, epidemic, storm, war—any one of a hundred emergencies.

The telephone company is a large group of earnest men and women who are striving to serve the public in an intelligent and very valuable sort of way.

Your telephone service is reliable because the people back of it consider their work a public duty—not just a job.—Evening Copper Journal, Hancock, Mich.

NEW FARM EDUCATION

Drastic changes in the methods of farm education heretofore employed were decided upon at a recent conference between federal and state authorities held at Fort Collins, Colo.

Agricultural education in the past has been directed mainly toward securing the production of larger crops, through improved machinery, better methods of cultivation and other means designed to produce a maximum yield. But experience has proved that merely raising larger crops will not solve the farmer's problem. In fact, overproduction has caused the surplus of farm products which it has been sought to counteract by various measures of legislative relief.

The new program of education will stress the business side of farming, including financing, management and marketing. It will emphasize the idea that farming is a business, and as such must be carried on with the same careful attention to details of management as is necessary in any manufacturing or commercial enterprise.

Another important phase of the new educational scheme is a plan to give systematic instruction to men and boys who may not be able to attend regular agricultural schools.

The system proposed by the conference is in line with the most advanced thought and practice in agricultural instruction, and it should be productive of greater efficiency in farm management, the serious study of which has been sadly neglected in the past.

SIDELIGHTS

By Marcy B. Darnall

Magicians deceive those who witness their tricks by diverting the attention to irrelevant movements. Bootleggers at Plymouth, Mass., have successfully employed similar tactics. One pulls a fire alarm, and while firemen, police and populace are rushing to the supposed fire the 'leggers deliver their cargoes and get away.

Fifty Japanese school boys are touring the United States, primarily for the purpose of studying American schools and civic agencies. Their greatest enthusiasm so far was aroused by witnessing a baseball slugging match at Recreation Park, San Francisco. After all, where is a better place to get an idea of American democracy than in the grandstand or bleachers?

More warnings and fewer arrests for trivial infractions of traffic regulations, and sterner penalties for violations which endanger life and limb, are recommended by the American Automobile Association, which says: "If arrests were confined to cases of actual disregard of public safety, and if more attention were given to the qualifications of drivers, trafic control would be vastly improved." Would it be too much to expect traffic officers to use discretion in such matters?

The Christian Science Monitor remarks that "the can-opener seems to have surpassed the bottle-opener as the handiest tool in America." But doesn't the Monitotr know that the most popular instrument is one that combines both of these useful tools?

King George of Great Britain, after witnessing an ultra-fashionable display of short skirts and bare arms at the Cowes regatta, expressed his disapproval and suggested that it would be appropriate for court ladies to set a more modest example. Next day not a short dress nor sleevless gown was to be seen around the royal precincts. King George of Great Britain is 61 years old.

At the international Y. M. C. A. conference held at Helsingfors, Finland, delegates from forty nations agreed that the greatest problem of the present day is sex. It is really wonderful to contemplate the original ideas which may be developed at a conference.

In recent dispatches covering their death, Rudolph Valentino was given columns of space to inches devoted to Dr. Charles W. Elliot. Valentino died at 31 after five or six years as a movie star. DrEliot died at 92, after an unprecedented career as scientist, educator, author and publicist, which included forty years as active president of Harvard. Such is fame.

iscellaneous circular No. 69-M just issued by the Department of tions for making a reliable beaver trap at home at a cost of only about $10. And what is still more wonderful, this valuable circular may be had free for the asking.

An elaborate Mass was held for dead elephants at the Buddhist Goduka Temple in Tokio. Explaining the idea underlying the rite, the president of the association of ivory art dealers said: "We feel that we are greatly indebted to elephants which have been furnishing the ivory for our business, so we are going to comfort the spirits of the elephants by holding a Mass for them." The motive was commendable,at least.

Charitably inclined persons would do well to scrutinize crippled beggars before contributing to their relief ,if a report from New York may be credited. It is said that the metropolis now has a flourishing "cripple factory," where people who prefer begging to working are made to appear deformed or crippled through a skillful use of padding and bandages. A "one-armed" beggar recently arrested was found to have two perfectly good arms, but one of them was strapped to his body underneath his shirt.

Fred Clevenger of Rushville, Ind., appeared to have solved the problem of getting into business without capital. He is said to have stolen lumber for a house, chicken coops and hog pens, which he built with stolen tools, stocked with stolen chickens and pigs, which he fed with stolen corn. Neighbors became suspicious and had him arrested when he sold $300 worth of chickens in a single week. It is sometimes unwise to be too ambitious.

Antiquated methods of transportation are unsuited to modern commercial activities, if one may judge from the experience of Denzil Smith of Clarksburg, Va. He attempted to deliver liquor on horseback, when he was arrested and his horse confiscated.

What some people don't know about driving would fill a book, also a hospital.

BUSINESS judgment BROUGHT HOME

YOUNG Mrs. Wellford was talking about her husband's recent illness.

"Bill was home for a whole week. It was his first real chance to see me in action as a housewife—we've been married only a year, you know.

"The third day he said to me: 'Sally, you need an Extension Telephone. You're wearing yourself out, running up and down stairs and from room to room every time the telephone rings. I never realized before how much a woman will put up with without complaining. I wouldn't stand for it a minute in my office.'" (Wellford's Inc. was a model office.)

"And so?" said her visitor.

"There it is," said Sally proudly.

An Extension Telephone costs only a few cents a week.

The Age of Chivalry

A GROUP of armed men rode into the French city of Tours. Three of them had patches over their left eyes; two had not spoken in a year; another's right arm was bound to his side. Each wore in his helmet a glove, a veil or a jeweled sleeve.

Now, none of these men were injured in the eye or arm, and none were dumb. They were simply "under vow." Knights all, they were products of the Age of Chivalry—an age that began in common sense and decency, culminated to a form of eccentric insanity, and left world-wide influences for good.

Chivalry had its earliest rise before the days of Charlemagne and was at its height a century or so after his death. It took its name from "cheval" (a horse), and meant originally "cavalry"—the idea being that horsemen belonged to the higher and noble classes—in other words, to the knighthood class.

The times were lawless, governments were unsettled, might overruled right and the weak were driven to the wall. To correct these abuses, knighthood, or chivalry, was instituted. Its basic principles were protection of the helpless, courtesy, reverence of women, the redressing of wrongs and personal uprightness.

As the men who took such pledges belonged to the wealthier and "armed" classes, they were in a position to make good their vows. In times and countries where laws were often unenforced and where abuses flourished uncorrected on every side, the assistance rendered to women and to the poor by powerful noblemen was the chief thing that kept the world from relapsing into utter barbarism.

But as time went on chivalry was carried to idiotic extremes, especially regarding women. Knights would marry for financial or other motives of expediency. Their wives were usually regarded as mere housekeepers and nurses. But each knight, by the customs of chivalry, was supposed to have some feminine object of adoration, in whose name and for whose honor he was expected to perform prodigies of valor. This woman to whom he dedicated his deeds was seldom, if ever, his wife. In fact, she was nearly always some one with whom he had never spoken and who, perhaps, did not know of his very existence. It might be a damsel whose face he had seen at a lattice; whose picture he had chanced to behold; or perhaps, some woman of whom he had merely heard or read.

But henceforth she became his guiding star, the object of his reverential homage; the loved one whose glove, veil or sleeve he aspired to wear in his helmet; for whose glory he slew other knights, redressed wrongs, succored the needy. If he won glory he was supposed to lay it all at her feet.

And usually that was as far as his acquaintance with her went. Meantime his neglected wife at home took care of his castle, reared his children and submitted tamely to second place in his affections.

The folly of the custom went still further. Men took to wearing patches over their eyes, to maintaining endless silences and to other petty discomforts in the name of the adored lady of their dreams. These patches, fits of dumbness, etc., were to endure until the victim had performed some deed he considered worthy his lady's praise.

At the age of twelve a boy of good family would be sent to the castle of some famous knight or other noble. There he became a page. Besides learning horsemanship and the use of arms he was supposed to fetch and carry for the women of his master's family, learn hair-dressing, lute-playing, reading, singing and other supposedly gentlemanly arts, including heraldry, the rules of etiquette and the flowery, high-flown speech of the day. When a little older he was promoted to the rank of squire and was permitted to carry his lord's shield and spare weapons and to accompany him everywhere as a sort of upper servant. Later, through some deed of prowess or by courage in the field, he qualified for the golden spurs of knighthood, taking the solemn vows and preparing for the accolade (or ceremony of investiture) by fasting and prayer.

In time, of course, knighthood, like other good things, became corrupt. Many knights forgot their vows, wrung money from the poor and maltreated the helpless. But the true spirit of chivalry never wholly died. To it we owe the best of medieval culture and progress, the upholding of order, religion and the small, sweet courtesies of life. Without it progress would have been set back for centuries and women relegated to the rank of mere slaves.

Romance, fair play, etiquette, modern regard for women and the public impulse of charity—all these had their rise in chivalry.

While chivalry was perhaps an era rather than an "event," yet a knowledge of its history and customs is necessary to a full understanding of the motives prompting the Crusades and other great adventures which history records.

From the Tenth to the Fifteenth century chivalry was in its prime. Its foilies and absurd regulations then began to decline, but its inestimable benefits will always endure.

The AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

COMPENSATION FOR VETERANS' FAMILIES

Enactment by congress at its session recently closed of the Green bill amending the Adjusted Compensation act will make it possible for dependent relatives of more than 25,000 dead veterans to obtain from the government over a period of the next four years the sum of nearly $12,000,000.

These dependent relatives have hitherto been unable to receive compensation for the death of these men because they had found it impossible to prove to the satisfaction of the government under a strict interpretation of the law made by the comptroller general that they had actually been dependent on the men in the military forces of the country.

A large proportion of those who will benefit by the Green bill, which embodied recommendations for changes in the Adjusted Compensation act suggested by the American Legion, are mothers and fathers of men killed in action.

Under the interpretation placed by the government on the original act, these mothers and fathers had been required to submit long and humiliating affidavits as to their financial condition in order to collect compensation. Many of them, according to Watson B. Miller, chairman of the Legion's national rehabilitation committee, who had an especially active part in obtaining passage of the changes in the law, preferred to undergo hardships rather than submit to this humiliation.

Other benefits to veterans and their dependents from the Green bill will bring the total amount obtained in their interest up to some $13,500,000. This sum is exclusive of the cost of an amendment authorizing payment of $60 cash in a lump sum to dependents or beneficiaries of men killed in action or deceased before discharge.

At the end of the war a $60 bonus was paid to all men in the military forces upon discharge. When the Adjusted Compensation act was passed it was provided that this amount should be deducted from the total which would otherwise have been due the veteran. The law was general in its terms in this clause and no exception was specifically provided for in the cases of men who, dying before discharge, had never received their bonus. The amendment now enacted remedies this injustice to their dependents, which resulted from an extremely literal reading of the law by the government.

Widows of veterans who died between May 19 and July 1, 1924, without making application for compensation may now apply in their stead, under the Green bill. Two thousand women are expected to benefit by this provision at an estimated cost to the government in excess of $1,000,000.

Payment of $249,526 in 358 cases where a veteran died while his compensation application was in the mail was authorized.

Claims of $108,386 on account of indebtedness to the United States were forgiven to 1,300 veterans.

ROOSEVELT'S OPINION

"ANY man who signs a pledge that he will not enlist or volunteer in the army or navy in the event of war should be promptly disfranchised and then should be sent to the front to dig kitchen sinks, bury dead horses and do other jobs which would relieve brave men of the unpleasant but necessary hard work of a campaign. Pacifists and poltroons would be made of some small use to their country. At present they are none."

That is the opinion, voiced with characteristic vigor, which the late President Theodore Roosevelt expressed of signers of "slacker oaths" and "no-more-war pledges."

It was written in a letter to Mrs. Russell MacLennan, now president of Redondo unit of the American auxiliary at Redondo, Calif. The letter, breathing the fiery spirit of the Rough Rider President, is carefully preserved by Mrs. MacLennan.

Signs Up a Grave Digger

Wright Tarbell of Watertown, S. D., champion member-getter of the American Legion, went to a cemetery the other day to arrange for a burial plot for a veteran. There he found a veteran digging graves. He signed him up for the Legion. And then waited while the new member borrowed from the sexton the money to pay his dues.

Work, forgetting all responsibility of time, appreciation or censure; enjoy it or make believe you do, and in time you really will. Somebody has said the thing which is needed most in every-day life is imagination; the little child has a happy time in "making believe." Never get too old to "make believe."

TASTY TIDBITS

When there are several pieces of cheese going to waste, grate them and add to boiling hot cream, stir until the cheese is dissolved, add paprika and cayenne and pour into cream cheese jars. The cheese will be creamy and delicious.

Cheese Salad.—Take a cream cheese or two, add thick sweet cream to soften, mix well and add chopped chives, green pepper and nuts. Make into balls and serve with a good boiled dressing on lettuce. Cottage cheese enriched with cream and served with dressing on lettuce makes a fine salad.

Olive Salad.—Peel olives, remove the stones, then roll them up over blanched almonds. Cover with french dressing and a handful of chopped mint. Let stand overnight to season. Drain in the morning and add fresh mint. Serve on head lettuce with thick mayonnaise.

Banana Cream.—Slice three ripe bananas, press through a sieve, add a box of ripe crushed berries, reserving some of the juice; mix lightly with enough powdered sugar to sweeten and set aside to chill. Serve in sherbet cups with sweetened whipped cream and some of the berry juice on top.

The orange is rich in vitamines and is given early to the small baby, between feedings, always straining the juice. They are rich in sugar, have salts of high value while the flavor is especially attractive. Taken at night they are especially good for constipation. A glass of orange juice can be taken by the most delicate stomach and is especially recommended for biliousness.

Dredge the tenderloins with flour, season well and brown in a hot frying pan, turning often to keep from scorching, then cook slowly until cooked to taste. Baste during the cooking. Serve rare with baked bananas.

Fruit Ice Cream.—Take the juice of three oranges, three lemons, three bananas mashed and put through a sieve, add one or more cupfuls of sugar and a quart of thin cream. Freeze as usual.

Choice Recipes.

When making blueberry pie add a teaspoonful of vinegar or a handful of seeded unripe grapes, a tablespoonful of molasses, sugar to sweeten and a teaspoonful of butter. Wrap a two-inch strip of white cloth around the pastry after wringing the cloth out of cold water. This will keep the juices from running from the pie. Remove as soon as the pie is baked.

Dream Pie.—Whip the whites of four eggs very stiff, add four heaping tablespoonfuls of granulated sugar, and beat again, add four more tablespoonfuls of sugar and beat until well mixed, then fold in one pint of berries (if canned, drain). Pour this mixture into a hot baked pastry shell and leave in irregular mounds. Bake until brown.

Butterscotch Cake.—Cream one-half cupful of butter, add one cupful of sugar, when well mixed add two egg yolks, beat well, then add two-thirds of a cupful of milk slowly, beating well. Sift two cupfuls of flour with three teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt, add to the first mixture. Add a teaspoonful of vanilla and fold in the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs. Bake in layer tins in a moderate oven. For the icing boil two cupfuls of light sirup, one-half cupful of butter and one-half cupful of milk until it forms a soft ball in cold water. Cool without stirring. When it is almost cold spread over the layers and top of cake. Decorate with halves of nutmeats.

Pecan Pie.—Mix one cupful of sugar and three-fourths of a cupful of sirup, add three eggs, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each egg is added; next add one-half cupful of butter melted, and one cupful of coarsely chopped nutmeats. Pour into a rich pie crust and bake one and one-half to two hours. Have the oven very hot the first few minutes to bake the crust, then lower the heat and bake slowly.

Ice Box Pudding.—Take one pound of vanilla wafers, one can of shredded pineapple, one cupful of nutmeats, one-half pound of butter, four eggs and two cupfuls of sugar. Cream the sugar and butter thoroughly, then add eggs one at a time; beat twenty minute. Put nutmeats and wafers through the meat grinder. Make alternate layers of the nutmeats and wafers with the pineapple and cream filling until all is used. Let stand in the ice box for twelve hours. Serve with whipped cream.

Nellie Maxwell

Rich Embroidered "Coolie" Coat; School Dress of Woolen Plaid

FROM the extreme of simplicity, the world of fashion is turning its attention to modes of more sophisticated type. This fact is being verified through the first showings of autumn and winter-style collections. Every detail of the newer costumes shows it, from our hats, which are being more elaborately created every minute, to our shoes, which are taking on a super-ornateness. And as to jewelry! Barbaric splendor marks the ear pendants, necklaces and "slave" bracelets which fashion dangles before us.

In the creation of our lingerie and negligees, frocks and wraps and overblouse tunics, it would seem, as if not only fabric elegance was never so accented, but as if the artcraft of every nation had been called upon for its best and most beautiful specimens of handiwork.

One of the most interesting departures into the realm of embroidered garments is the coolie coat, such as shown in the picture. Its uses are versatile. While it serves admirably as a handsome "at home" negligee, if milady chooses to call upon it to play the part of an opera wrap de luxe, it will yield most gracefully to the occasion. These beauteous oriental garments are styled of rich satin canton and are to be had in exquisite colorings both dark and light, with a preference for black.

No less beautiful than the embroideries from oriental countries are the brilliant shawls from sunny Spain. These are finding place in the wardrobe of the majority of women of fashion. If not a mammoth square silken shawl, at least a wide evening scarf embroidered and befringed a la Espagnole.

Perhaps the most unique application of native embroidery themes is finding expression in the new separate tunic blouse, which is vivaciously colorful and is expected to be worn over a velvet skirt made in tiers scalloped or plain. These striking tunics are of fascinating styling in that sleeves, front openings and necklines show artful needlecraft of mayhap Spanish, Japanese, Chinese, Russian or Czechoslovakian inspiration.

Wonder if little folks realize what a furore of excitement they are stirring up in fashion circles, just about now. And all because "first day of school" is at hand and oh me, oh my, what heaps of good-looking clothes it is going to require for the weeks and months to follow.

One thing is encouraging, the new bright plaid flannels, said to be in the very top notch of fashion, are certainly going to do a powerful bit in making it easy for mothers to plan little daughter's school dresses.

Beautiful Oriental Garment.

With materials decided upon, the next move is for "ideas." It is going to be no trick at all to find them this season. Why this season any more than any other? Well, just this. We are going to borrow them from the grown-ups. In other words fashion decrees that little folks' frocks adapt the style details of adult mode in belts, vestees, collars and in other various ways. Of course they must be changed sufficiently to effect the simplicity of childhood, and the latest juvenile style displays assure that this is being successfully accomplished.

One of the details which will feature children's frocks will be belts of leather or self-fabric on both one and two-piece models. The new plaid dresses are of very smart appearance when accompanied by a narrow gilded leather belt. And are the children going to like to wear these new silver or gold kid belts with a sure-enough buckle? Ask the first little girl you meet.

Child's Frock Simple, but Pleasing.

Oh, yes! about the new sleeves, some of them will have wrist ties as a sleeve finish, just like mother and big sister wear. Then, too, there will be little vestees studded with rows of tiny buttons, if you please, and scarf collars and oh! just too many new "wrinkles" to enumerate in the limits of this article.

In regard to the plaid dress here pictured, note the turnover collar, the blouse effect, the buttons and the piping of contrasting color—all important style details.

CHANNEL SWIMMERS

This was a good season for those with ambitions to swim the English Channel, three of whom were successful, two of them being American women. Several others missed victory only by short distances.

All three of this year's successful aspirants swam the Channel in less time than had been taken by either of the five who had accomplished the feat in former years. These are their records:

Miss Gertrude Ederle, of New York, the first woman to conquer the Channel, crossed in 14 hours, 31 minutes. Mrs. Clemington Corson, Danish-American swimmer of New York, mother of two children, made the time of about 15 hours. Ernest Vierkotter, a German baker, broke all records by accomplishing the feat in12 hours, 42 minutes.

Among those who attempted the Channel swim this year was Miss Clara Belle Barrett of New Rochelle, N. Y. whose brave though unsuccessful effort won universal admiration. She battled wind and tide for 22 hours before she was forced to give up after almost reaching her goal, a victim of sheer hard luck. She had perhaps expended far greater strength than those who were fortunate enough to meet success.

Swimming the Channel is more a matter of luck than of skill and endurance, owing to the prevalance of squalls and treacherous currents which can not be guarded against. There are probably a hundred swimmers in the world today who could make the swim under the favorable conditions, yet only five have accomplished it: Burgess in 1911, Sullivan and Toth in 1923, Mrs. Corson and Vierkotter in 1926.

A HERO'S FATE

Some years ago this month the world was thrilled by the magnificent exploit of Commander John Rodgers of the navy, who made the famous flight from San Francisco almost to Honolulu, having been forced down within sight of his goal, to drift for several days before being picked up. While thus drifting lost to the world, he kept up the spirits of his crew by words of encouragement, telling jokes and repeated expressions of faith that they would be rescued, as they finally were. Then he refused to leave his plane until it had been towed to the nearest island of the Hawaiian group, so that it might be recorded that he made the trip wholly by seaplane.

It was another illustration of the irony of fate that this hero should be killed the other day while making a routine flight of only short distance, a flight such as is made by many aviators every day in the year.

When about to make a landing near the Philadelphi Navy Yard, Commander Rodger's plane sideslipped for some unknown reason and plunged into the river after a fall of only a few feet. He was extricated with difficulty and died a couple of hours later.

Commander Rodgers was one of the foremost aviators of America and his loss to the service is deplored by all. President Coolidge telegraphed the dead officer's father: Please accept my deep and sincere sympathy in the sorrow which has come to you

Commander Rodger's life will be an inspiration to the service as an exemplification of the finest ideals of our Navy.

FISHERMEN ARE VINDICATED

From time immemorial fishermen have held almost exclusive right and title to charter membership in the Order of Sons of Ananias. True, occasionally some prevaricator in other lines of effort has made a puny challenge to their supremacy—the hunter and golf liar, for example—but with little success.

Now comes a fishermen's champion who apparently clinches the argument. Colonel Ed Landvoigt, editor emeritus of the Forrest City, Ark., Times-Herald, in a recent issue of that excellent publication relates some incidents which should vindicate the fisherman's claims for all time. He says:

"A boy on White River saw a big catfish swimming beneath the water, plunged overboard and made pursuit, finally after swimming a mile he diving drove the fish into a cave and captured it.

"Next a man on the Arkansas River siezed a huge fish by the tail was dragged overboard, but with a bulldog grip he held on, was carried down the river for a mile or so, most of the time under water, but at last worried the fish to capture.

A fisherman hooked a large tarpon, when he discovered that a shark was about to share the sport with him, he jumped overboard and shooed the shark away."

Colonel Landvoigt is an old-timer, but he preserves the zest and enthusiasm of youth. He knows a good lie when he sees it. We hope he may live to write a companion book to Izaak Walton's "The Compleat Angler." He might call it "The Compleat Angleliar."

Since securing a divorce a St. Louis man is gradually regaining the use of his voice.

STRAIGHT TALKS WITH AUNT EMMY

ON HOUSEHOLD BUDGETS

"Aunt Emmy," asked Helen, "won't you explain what is meant by a household budget? You said something the other day about budgets, but I don't seem clear in my mind about it."

"A budget is simply a plan," said Aunt Emmy. "You plan what you are going to do with your income. You divide your income systematically so that you can meet your needs. You lay aside a part of your income for rent, other parts for food, clothing, heat, light, telephone, recreation, savings and so on."

"How are you going to know how much you should spend for each thing—on rent for instance, Aunty?" asked Helen.

"Experts have studied the question carefully and have worked out budgets to suit every income. Of course, you can alter these typical budgets slightly to suit your particular needs. For example, the average budget that covers incomes of from $2,000 to $10,000 a year divides your income into six parts. Ten per cent for savings, twenty per cent for rent, twenty per cent for food, twenty per cent for what is called betterment and includes education, amusement, entertainment, books, music, sports; fifteen per cent for clothes and fifteen per cent for operating expenses.

"No matter how you change the other items you must not change the savings allowance—except to increase it. A great majority of men who reach sixty are dependent on relatives or charity. If they had saved only ten cents out of every dollar, they would not have been in that plight. There is nothing like money in the savings bank to help you through the emergencies that come in everybody's life. If everybody kept one year's income in the savings bank, much misery would be averted. If you always have enough money to see you through one year, you are pretty safe. Beyond that, it is wise to let your money accumulate until you have enough to buy some good securities. Your banker will advise you about the securities that suit your needs."

"But, Aunt Emmy, suppose you wanted to alter your budget?" inquired Helen. "How would you know how to do it? A young married couple might start on a certain budget and then, when they had children to feed and educate, they might want to change it."

"Well, my dear, if they were in doubt about their financial affairs, they could always consult their banker. That is why it is so good to establish friendly relations with a bank when you start out in life. Any banker will be glad to advise young people about making their money go farther."

WHAT THE FEDERAL RESERVE HAS DONE FOR BUSINESS

What the Federal Reserve System has done for business is summed up in these points: It has (1) given business greater confidence in the ability of the banks to care for credit needs; (2) introduced an elastic currency and eliminated money panics; (3) eliminated extreme seasonal fluctuations in rates of interest; (4) brought business safely through the war and post-war crises; (5) saved millions of dollars to business through its efficient system for check collection; (6) made the gold reserve more effective as a basis for credit extension in times of extraordinary demand; (7) aided in the financing of foreign and domestic trade by developing a discount market for acceptances; (8) provided a means for handling huge financial operations of the government without interference with business; (9) aided in the re-establishment of the gold standard abroad; (10) given us an experienced banking organization which will assist us in meeting the future exigencies of business at home and abroad with courage and confidence.

BANKERS EDUCATIONAL FOUNDATION TRUSTEES

John H. Puelicher, former president of the American Bankers Association, has been named chairman of the board of trustees of the American Bankers Association Educational Foundation for which $500,000 has been pledged by the bankers to provide for scholarships and research in economics in colleges throughout the country. The other trustees are Leonard P. Ayers, Vice-President Cleveland Trust Company; Stephen I. Miller, Educational Director American Institute of Banking; Lewis E. Pierson, Chairman Irving Bank-Columbia Trust Company, New York; George E. Roberts, Vice-President National City Bank, New York; Francis H. Sisson, Vice-President Guaranty Trust Company, New York; Evans Woollen, President Fletcher Savings & Trust Company, Indianapolis; W. Espey Albig, Deputy Manager American Bankers Association, Secretary.

The banks of Washington, Ia., believe in giving the pupils of the public schools simple and practical information in regard to banking practices as a matter of education. Talks were made during the year to grade and high school students by representatives of the banks.

AUTO CRASH VICTIM BURIED

Funeral services were held in Redwood City Tuesday for Daniel C. Irwin, San Francisco business man and San Mateo county deputy sheriff, who was found burned to death beneath his automobile on the highway near the Tanforan race track Saturday. Deputy Sheriff C. A. Callahan, who was in charge of the inquiry into Irwin's death, said he was convinced the tragedy was an accident. He also said he did not believe the body had been robbed after the crash.

Germany will hereafter count the hours from 1 in the morning to 24 midnight. Prudent parents will probably insist that the daughter's young man skidoo when the clock strikes 23.

Misplaced confidence is seldom recovered.

SUMMONS IN ACTION TO ESTABLISH TITLE

Action No. 12186

In the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of San Mateo.

J. P. Bonds, Plaintiff, vs. All Persons claiming any interest in or lien upon the real property herein described, or any part thereof, Defendants.

The People of the State of California:

To all persons claiming any interest in, or lien upon, the real property herein described or any part thereof, defendants, greeting:

You are hereby required to appear and answer the complaint of J. P. Bonds, plaintiff, filed with the Clerk of the above entitled Court and County, within three months after the first publication of this summons, and to set forth what interest, or lien, if any, you have in or upon that certain real property or any part thereof, situate in the County of San Mateo, State of California, particularly described as follows:

AIR MAIL RECORDS

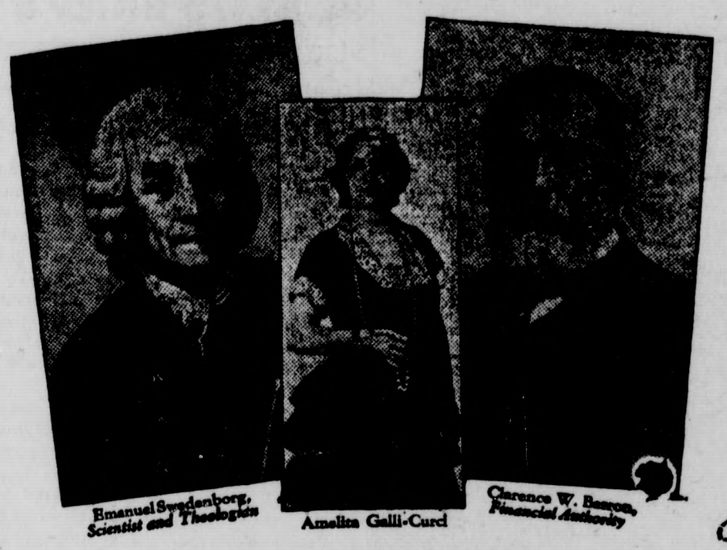
Pilots of the United States air mail service again have been indulging in the popular sport of breaking records. Their latest feat cut the time between New York and Chicago to 5 hours, 27 minutes. Schedule time for the trip is 8 hours, 45 minutes.

Earl Ward, pilot on the New York-Cleveland leg of the journey encountered a stiff gale over the Alleghenies, but landed in Cleveland in 3 hours, 3 minutes, after leaving New York. Then Bill Williams took up the flight and completed the record-breaking trip.

At Chicago the mail for the northwest was picked up by Ed Ballough and carried to St. Paul. the total time between New York and St. Paul being a little more than 9 hours. Schedule time for this trip is 13 hours, 30 minutes.

Air mail flyers have demonstrated that aerial transportation is entirely practical, and not attended by very great danger when conducted by well-trained and careful pilots. Plans for great extensions of this service are being made, with a view to placing air mail contracts with private concerns as an encouragement to civil aviation.

Galli-Curci Swayed by the Seer of Sweden



Prima Donna Gives Wonderful Interpretation of the Writings of Emanuel Swedenborg—

HENRY FORD'S Dearborn Independent publishes a remarkable article on Galli-Curci and Emanuel Swedenborg, by Clarence W. Barron of the Wall Street Journal, the world famous financial authority.

Mr. Barron declares that Galli-Curci has the most wonderful brain he has ever met or heard of in a woman, although she is much more "a true woman with a life and soul of affection for all that is ennobling and uplifting in the family, and in color, form, and music."

Mr. Barron is chairman of the Rotch Trustees, who acting under the will of Lydia S. Rotch of New Bedford, Mass., began in 1872 a modern translation of the Theological Works which Emanuel Swedenborg wrote and published in the Latin tongue, and deposited in the libraries of the world 150 years ago.

This work was completed and published by the Houghton Mifflin Co. in 32 volumes in 1907.

About three years ago there appeared in a Cleveland paper a paragraph that among her other accomplishments Galli-Curci had read all the Theological Writings of Emanuel Swedenborg. The claim seemed so absurd to Mr. Barron that he thought it might be easily punctured by a simple inquiry as to the edition.

The Bible a Greater Work Than Ever

To Mr. Barron's direct inquiry Madame Galli-Curci promptly replied: "Yes, I have read in the past year the complete Swedenborg Works, in fact it is the Rotch Edition of the Houghton Mifflin Co. that I have.

"I can say certainly that the Bible to me is a greater work than it was before."

Mr. Barron says: "My astonishment was intensified. Familiar over many years with Swedenborg's general theological writings, I had set out to read the entire thirty-two volumes preparatory to an advertising campaign for the sale of this edition. Reading a few pages each day I finished my self-imposed task in fourteen years. I shall probably finish a second reading, at my present rate of progress, in perhaps ten years. Was it possible that a woman with no previous knowledge or relation to these books had really intelligently read them within a year?"

Swedenborg's Writings

Mr. Barron continues: "As an economist writing state papers on weights, measures, coinages and currencies, Swedenborg is easily comprehended. As an engineer transporting ships overland he is easily visualized. As a government official in the great mining industry of Sweden, writing practical books on mining and smelting, declared to be the foundation of modern metallurgy, he is of interest in the encyclopedia of scientific history. As the writer of volumes—original studies in search for the human soul—he is not without human interest.

"But when one comes to the realm of the unseen, where there is neither time nor space upon which to rest mental conceptions, few may enter into the fullness of the revelation which has come into the libraries of the world through Emanuel Swedenborg.

"Think of twenty modern-sized volumes, originally written in the Latin tongue and unfolding from the Hebrew of 'Genesis' and 'Exodus' the internal or spiritual sense that lies beneath the letter. Annex a dozen more similar volumes that not only expound every picture set forth in the book of 'Revelation' as conveyor of a tremendous truth of universal application throughout invisible degrees of creation and life, but also illumine all the problems of sex as presented throughout the universe from the union of the love and wisdom in the divine down to sex crystallization in the mineral kingdom; include the deepest of all works ever written entitled, in the original Latin, 'Angelic Wisdom Concerning the Divine Love and the Divine Wisdom.' Then answer to yourself the number of years that ought to be required to master these thirty-two volumes"

Mean More Than Any Other Books

Mr. Barron, still credulous, continued his correspondence with Madame Galli-Curci for some months. He learned that soon after she lost her dear mother she had sought the Writings of Swedenborg in a desire to know more about the other world whence her mother had gone. She spent the entire summer vacation studying Swedenborg's Works, and declared: "They have meant, and mean more to me than anything else I have ever read."

When Galli-Curci returned from California Mr. Barron motored up into the Catskills to her beautiful Italian palace, and in an afternoon with her and her husband, Mr. Homer Samuels, he was convinced that Galli-Curci had read and devoured Swedenborg in a briefer period than anybody had ever done before.

He says of this interview:

"Hours flew like minutes. I wasn't the questioner. Mr. and Mrs. Samuels were at me with the sharpest and deepest questions. They seemed in perfect harmony mentally and spiritually, as in their work in music.

Wanted to Learn

"She wanted to know about the 'Grand Man'. I told her it would be easier to comprehend it if she would forego the idea of time and space and consider, as Swedenborg says in 'The Apocalypse Explained', that every society in the heavens connects with some organ of the human body and helps to sustain it. Therefore the heavens have the organization of the 'Grand Man', but we need not think of it as a shape or figure.

"'Yes,' exclaimed her husband, 'I see it; it is organization.' I explained, also, how the 'Psalms' likewise connected with every society of the heavens, and how the world within and without was knit together in one grand poem and song of creation, man in the image of his Maker and knit into Him through the heavens, from which he has life in every organ of his body.

Swedenborg's 32 Volumes Read in a Single Summer

"'Now I understand,' she said, and asked me for explanation of other things. Her intelligent questions, as well as her statements, left no manner of doubt that Galli-Curci had performed the stupendous feat of reading the thirty-two volumes of Swedenborg in a single summer season. She declared 'Heaven and Hell' a very attractive and popular title and concerns that about which people are most eager to know; but it is not one of Swedenborg's great works; although it makes a good popular and introductory work."

A Help in Her Work

Galli-Curci understands the writings of Swedenborg even better than theologians, because she puts them into practice in the broadest life of loving helpfulness.

She said that Swedenborg had helped her in her work. She had no longer to think of herself but of her audiences, and let the music flow through her: regard herself just a medium for life to pour through. She felt with and for her audiences, and singing was no effort for her.

All Fear Vanishes

"The more you do—the more you give forth—the more life and energy is poured into you, and you are stronger and not weaker for the doing, the working and the singing. I always feel stronger; I am not exhausted at all by my singing. Swedenborg shows the reason and how life comes in as you pour it forth usefully to others. You don't have to try worry or fret. You know it is not you but that it is just being done through you."

Speaking further of the help Swedenborg had been to her in her work she said: "One gets so much more confidence. The other world and the one life, that comprehends all life, becomes reality and all fear and worry vanish."

Mr. Miller of the University of Pennsylvania declares that a man or woman has only about one chance in a million of meeting an ideal mate. Most married folks will agree with that.

If you doubt that women have a keen sense of humor, note this one by Frances Lester Warner, a former schoolma'm, now an author: "A Ford will run whenever a quorum of its parts is present."

OUR GOALS

Some folks live their entire lives to reach a goal and are happy when they can hand down to the next generation the successful results, but yet they have had nothing but hard work and day dreams of what a pleasure it would be if their goal had been reached and their lives' work realized while they yet lived. No man with a set ambition looks upon life as hopeless, for does he not work day and night to attain his end, and when he beats upon obstacles which sometimes cause him to be helpless for a while, this is only temporary and his will is more determined than ever to succeed. Every boy and girl, man and woman should set a goal. They should dream of it, work for it and attain it. We can't do these things by ourselves, but we can with supreme help and our own perseverance succeed. Keep to the right of the road and as sure as there is life in us we shall win. Sometimes the road is hard, and sometimes we have reason to think that everything is against us, but never has a man gone forth to reach a goal that was for the good of human beings at large or the benefit of his direct kinship, but that he would win. No man or object is lost until he has proved himself a failure.

TWO WOMEN PRAISE SAME MEDICINE

Both Helped by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"After the birth of my little daughter I was very badly run-down. I could not think of going to a hospital, but grew steadily worse, being compelled to stay in bed two or three days each week. A friend of my sister's told of the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done her, and my sister bought me two bottles of it. I had not taken all of one bottle when I was up and able to do some work. I am truly a booster for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and you may use my testimonial."—Mrs. Mayme Lynch, 1119 Island Ave., Ext., McKee's Rocks, Pa.

Mrs. Hope L. Smith, a farmer's wife of Route 3, Floyd, Va., says she was ill for ten years with a good deal of pain in her side and so weak she could hardly work. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped her so much she is telling her friends about it.

Greedy

During a heavy snowstorm I asked to shovel off a neighbor's snow. She agreed to my price, and I set to work. It was evening and when I had but a small piece to finish she told me to quit and come back in the morning to finish and get my pay. That night it snowed again and she had me clean the entire 150 feet over again before she gave me the sum that I had asked for one job.—H. A., in Chicago Tribune.

EGG BREAKAGE REDUCED BY ABSORBERS

Delivering Butter to a City Customer.

Men, women and children are not the only transportables profiting by "relaxed motoring" on properly controlled automotive springs, it is discovered.

F. H. Simon, the head of a stabilator company of Los Angeles, enumerates a long list, including cookies, flowers, milk bottles, eggs—and even mentions dogs and fowls—as beneficiaries of stabilated easy riding.

Lessens Bottle Breakage.

"Milk dealers operating light trucks," he declares, "find that properly controlled spring rebound lessens bottle breakage and speeds up deliveries wonderfully. Bakers have told me a similar story. Pies, cakes and breads, particularly, are perishable merchandise and can't stand much rough going and coming. Spoiling is negligible, however, if the car springs are made to behave themselves. Then there are flowers. Florists say that an efficient recoil check reduces very materially the damage to posies and potted plants during delivery."

Less Egg Breakage.

"And I know a proprietor of a Lankershim egg ranch," he adds, "who reduced his losses through egg breakage 75 per cent by having his Dodge truck equipped with stabilators. He used to figure his loss from broken hen fruit at about $1,400 a year. Now, he says, it is not more than $1 a day, or about $360 a year."

Dogs and Fowls.

Some one asked Simon what about dogs, poultry and the like, and he confessed that he didn't have any actual testimony from dog owners or hen haulers. But he insisted he was pretty sure the canines and chicken folks were all very appreciative of "relaxed motoring" wherever they had tried it, and would be glad to say so if they could talk.

TIRED DRIVERS COURT DANGERS

Fatigue Plays Important Part in Causing Automobile Accidents.

Fatigue plays a far more important part in causing automobile accidents than is generally recognized. A motor truck owner was driving to a distant city at night to be there for a load early in the morning. He had been working hard all day and was fatigued. At a grade crossing he came into collision with a train and was killed.

It is quite likely this man went to sleep at the wheel. In any case he was ordinarily a careful and cautious driver. He knew the road well. He was familiar with the crossing. There is every indication that the accident was due solely to fatigue.

A party of tourists started out to make a long motor trip. In order to make it in the shortest possible time they decided to keep going night and day. One would drive while the others slept, or at least tried to sleep. The journey ended in a fatal accident before the goal was reached.

Needs Recharging.

The human system is a good deal like a storage battery. When the current in the battery is low, it fails to turn the starting motor. Even the light may be dim. That battery will not work well again until it is charged.

The only way a fatigued man can become alert again is to have his vitality recharged through complete rest. The imperfect rest he gets while riding in a car is not rest enough. He needs good, sound sleep and plenty of it.

A young person can usually regain his vitality more quickly than one along in middle life or an old person. He sleeps sounder and he responds more quickly to rest.

Persons of all ages, however, are subject to fatigue. The only difference between ages is the rate of recovery.

Reactions Slower.

At the beginning of a long trip any driver is far less likely to meet with an accident than he is as he nears the end of a long, continuous drive. At the start, he is alert. If there are careless and reckless drivers on the road he is able to avoid a collision. After 100 or more miles of driving he is far less alert. His reactions are slower. When he gets in a tight place he fails to respond and the chances are greatly against him if an accident is imminent.

This means that a person should avoid driving when fatigued, when tired out because of having driven a great distance already or having done work that proved tiring. If he has not had his usual amount of sleep he is also fatigued and should avoid driving.

The distance a person can drive without becoming fatigued will vary with different people. A person who is driving every day and who is driving long distances can drive more miles a day without fatigue than a person who drives only a few days a week and then but short distances.

Automobile Industry

Eighty-two per cent of the world's motor vehicles are owned in the United States.

Motors are now the third item of our nation's exports.

American automobiles to the number of 536,741 were shipped abroad during last year.

In the truck and bus field it is noted that 14,000 miles of bus routes are operated by electric railway companies.

The automobile industry gives employment to 3,445,642 persons.

Railroads carried 3,040,000 carloads of automotive freight in 1925.

The purchasing power of factory wages for automobiles has increased 150 per cent since 1914.

It required 1,482 bushels of wheat to buy the average motor car in 1913, while only 552 bushels are needed today.

More than 1,500,000 motor vehicles were scrapped last year.

A total of 14,041,000 motorists visited the national parks in 1925, or 36 per cent more than in the preceding year.

Taxes paid by the motor vehicle aggregated $667,000,000 [illegible].

Door Operator Is Great Convenience for Garage

The Scientific American illustrates and describes a door operator, the invention of L. L. Shockley of Columbia, Mo., as follows:

The invention provides a device especially adapted for barn and garage doors, wherein means is provided for counterbalancing the door, to permit it to be moved vertically with a minimum of effort. With the doorhanger, there are no rollers or track for rollers to jump from, and the door cannot stick as may the rolling door. Since the door is counterbalanced it moves without effort.

Tell Missing Cylinder

To tell which cylinder is missing explosions, short-circuit the plug with a screwdriver. Touch the end to the cylinder and lean the blade against the head of plug. This will prevent that cylinder from firing. If it is a dead cylinder it will make no difference in the sound of the exhaust. By noting the sound of the exhaust you can tell which cylinder is missing explosions.

CALIFORNIA NEWS BRIEFS

An 80-foot blue whale, weighing seventy-five tons, was captured by the Norwegian whaling ship, Hanka, after a spectacular four-hour battle off Catalina Island. The sea monster towed the Hanka twenty-five miles after he was first harpooned, according to officers on the whaler. Captain G. M. Bryde, who directed the catch, said it was the "toughest" battle in his thirty years of whaling experience. Three 100-pound steel harpoons, each loaded with a T. N. T. bomb, were fired into the vitals of the whale before he gave up his battle.

More than 500 growers and citizens of "The World's Great Peach Bowl," of Yuba, Sutter and Butte counties assembled at Marysville in the Hotel Marysville, for the "Harvest Banquet" that climaxed the first annual "Peach Festival." The display consisted of Phillips cling peaches, the principal product of the three counties that raise more than half the world's canning cling peaches. In the display was the huge bowl, seven feet in diameter and containing nearly a ton of peaches.

The mental health of a child is nurtured through praise rather than scolding, according to a word of advice given California parents by the state board of health. "Through praise rather than scolding, through happiness rather than failure, the child acquires an elementary optimistic philosophy of life," said the board in advocating less scolding. "He acquires also a sense of value and a sense of security which are very important for health of mind."

An exchange of visits between the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce and other industrial organizations of that city with the Porterville Chamber of Commerce may be arranged for this fall or next spring, according to W. S. Shippey, president of the Porterville organization, who has returned from a conference with San Francisco commercial bodies. The object of the tours, said Shippey, is to establish closer relations with the metropolis and the Porterville district.

Plans are being prepared for a two-story reinforced concrete research laboratory building for the Stanford University campus, Palo Alto, the funds, $100,000 being provided by the Rockefeller Foundation. The structure will comprise central portion of two stories, on either side of which will be two L shaped wings of one story, enclosing a courtyard for a small botanical garden. One wing will be used for research and the other for laboratories.

Marking the golden anniversary of the driving of the spike that completed the rail connection between northern and southern California, an all-day celebration was held September 5, at Lang, twenty miles north of Saugus, the scene of the completion of the work. A train as nearly duplicating the train of fifty years ago as possible left Los Angeles to meet the most modern express from the north at the historical site.

At the regular auction of the California Farm Bureau Marketing Association in Tulare recently, six carloads of hogs, twenty-two cows and seven calves were sold. The sale was one of the largest in the local stockyards in some months and brought top price of $13.95 for the porkers. The twenty-two cows brought a total of 987, running from $11 to $74 per head. The calves sold from $3 to $38 bringing a total of $152.25.

Spraying of grape vines for control of mildew and Spanish measles is proving successful in Tulare county it appears from reports made to and by the assistant farm advisor. This is the second season when records have been available on this work and the advisor declares the results are well worthy of continuation of the tests over a wider field for the coming year, after which a definite report may be expected.

Cliff Dwellers wheat grown by Rufus Wiley of McFarland, a rare variety that is said to have been saved to modern civilization from past centuries, will be exhibited at the Kern county fair, September 14 to 18. The wheat is from grain sent to the Delano high school several years ago by the department of agriculture, the seed said to have been found in a cliff dwellers' village belonging to a long past race of people.

C. C. Hall, who was born 71 years ago on the Hall ranch in Alexander valley, Sonoma county, is dead at his home near Healdsburg. Hall took one of the leading parts in prune and hop growing in Sonoma county and for many years was identified with its agricultural and horticultural development.

Mrs. Annie Carry, 89, who came to Santa Rosa, sixty years ago, crossing the plains, died in Santa Rosa last week. Mrs. Carry was long interested in the work of the "Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic."

Kern county has almost 102,000 trees now bearing citrus fruit, according to authentic compilation at Bakersfield, of which 100,000 are oranges, 800 lemons, and the remainder grapefruit.

A total of 36 calls have been answered this season by John McGlinchey and his county fire fighters at Livermore, it is reported. The total losses this year so far have been $2,500, the fire warden says. On many occasions fields valued in high figures have been threated by grass fires and the timely arrival of the firemen have kept the damages low.

Word More or Less

A colored man was slowly looking over cantaloupes on the fruit and vegetable counter of a Senate avenue store. The clerks were busy at other counters.

"How much these melons?" the man asked in a sing-song voice none too distinct.

"What's that?" snapped the storekeeper, a bit impatient at being interrupted while he was weighing sugar.

"I said, how much these breakfast melons?" said the colored man, attempting to be more explicit.—Indianapolis News.

When you buy a General Motors car on credit, you may be sure that the purchase plan is as dependable as the car itself.

The purchase plan offered by General Motors dealers is another way by which you secure greatest value for every dollar you spend for a General Motors car.

This is the GMAC Plan, operated by a member of the General Motors family. It combines sound credit practice with very low cost.

The General Motors line is a complete line—"a car for every purse and purpose." And under the GMAC Plan, purchase may be arranged according to the circumstances and assured income of individual buyers.

Any General Motors dealer will be glad to explain the GMAC Plan.

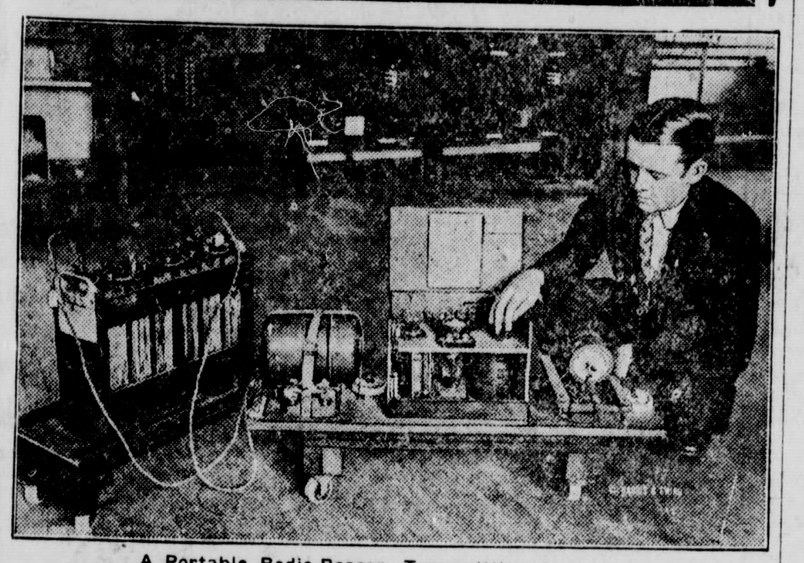
RADIO



A Portable Radio-Beacon Transmitting Apparatus.

The average listener, while knowing in a general way that the radio compass is one of the most remarkable developments of the age, really doesn't understand exactly what it is or why the United States leads all the world in this up-to-the-minute aid to navigation. This appeared to be the case with several members of the house committee considering the navy appropriation bill, with the result that the following extremely interesting information regarding the use of the radio compass was brought out at a recent hearing:

Representative Hardy of Colorado: Just what is a radio compass station?

Commander Glassford, U. S. N.: A radio compass is for the purpose primarily of enemy tracking in war. In peace these stations are used as aids to navigation in furnishing ships at sea their bearings from the station or stations, from which the ship's position may be determined. The apparatus at the radio-compass stations is so designed as to be able to determine accurately the direction from the station of a radio emission. When a ship at sea, for instance, sends out a radio emission from her own transmitter, the radio-compass station can tell the direction or bearing of the ship. In foggy weather it is very comforting to a captain of a ship to know his bearings from any fixed objects on land. Preferably radio-compass stations are in groups of three in order that a positive check may be had by a ship on the interception of bearings sent to him.

Representative Ayres of Kansas: You speak of the ship out at sea striking on its key and then three different stations, receiving the message from different directions, being able to locate this particular ship?

Commander Glassford: Yes, sir.

Mr. Ayres: Now that is used in what kind of case—in the case of a vessel being lost at sea, or for what different purposes may it be used?

Commander Glassford: For instance, when a ship is making New York harbor and she has not been able to get a sun sight or star sight.

Mr. Ayres: On account of fogs, or something?

Commander Glassford: On account of fogs, hazy weather, strong currents and so forth—she does not usually know where she is except approximately by dead-reckoning navigation. As she approaches the coast, a system of signals everybody concerned understands, she will request a group, we will say, of three radio-compass stations at the entrance to the harbor of New York, about 50 miles apart, to give her bearings. All three compass stations are listening for their signal from the ship and when it is made the stations detect the direction from which it is coming. There is a master station of the three which co-ordinates all three of those bearings, getting the necessary information from the other stations by telephone, telegraph or radio.

Gives Service Free.

In a very short time (in about 15 seconds, we will say) this master station charts these three bearings, and as accurate they should meet in a point. The bearings are then transmitted to the ship by a radio dispatch which gives the navigator the basis for a determination of latitude and longitude. This radio-compass service would be free to all mariners.

Representative Oliver of Alabama: What business done by those stations sufficient to justify the expense of maintaining them?

Commander Glassford: The business done by our stations, sir, is immaterial for the proper conduct of the service. The commercial business that the traffic stations do is merely incidental—for which we receive pay and which we collected, as I said, $100 last year. But that does not, of course, pay for keeping up the stations.

Mr. French: You speak of this other service for ships; that is free. Suppose that was paid for on a basis of what other nations charge for similar services, approximately what would it be worth?

Commander Glassford: The system would pay for itself, sir.

Mr. French. But, in dollars, what would it be worth?

Commander Glassford: The British charge $1.25 a bearing; the French, Swedish, $1.30. We gave 125,000 bearings during the last fiscal year. At the British rate, which is the average, this service would be worth $156,257.50.

Mr. Oliver: Do you think it advisable to require that this service be paid for by those who use it?

Commander Glassford: That has been gone into, sir, very carefully, and we reached the conclusion that it would not—for this reason. We do not believe the mariners at sea would use it to the extent they do now. In England, for instance, the mariners use the radio-compass system much less than they do here, and what we want is to have our men get the practice and to be efficient at all times, so that they are ready in an emergency for their real job, in time of war.

Saves Life and Property.

Mr. French: It means the saving of life and property?

Commander Glassford: It does, and it is a tremendous boost to our own people at sea. We feel that they would not use it to the extent they do and would not get the benefit that they do now, if they had to pay for it.

Mr. Anderson: It seems to me the best illustration of the value of this radio-compass service I can recall is about two or three years ago there was a merchant ship afire at sea about 50 or 60 miles off Norfolk. She sent an S O S stating in latitude and longitude what she assumed to be her position. The coast guard cutter Manning got steam up immediately and proceeded to the position given, but there was no trace of the ship to be found. The captain of the Manning, fully cognizant of this navy radio-compass service, called Norfolk navy radio and asked Norfolk to see if she could raise the ship. Norfolk made the call and the ship heard it and called Norfolk back. The radio-compass station then took bearings, charted her position, and called it back to the Manning. The Manning proceeded to the new position, 25 miles away from the spot originally given, found the ship, and towed her in. The captain of the vessel did not know where he was and the compass stations found him 25 miles away from where he thought he was.

FOR RADIO FANS

An ordinance has been passed in Dixon, Ill., making it unlawful for any persons "to have, operate or maintain any instrument or device that interferes in any way with radio reception."

The Department of Commerce is now co-operating with nearly 150 broadcasting stations in sending out weather reports, and practically all parts of the United States are within their range.

A radio workshop has been installed in a large department store in London, in which fans can build their own sets under the guidance of a skilled radio mechanic. There is no charge for the service.

A surprising amount of dust drifts into the necks of horn-type loud speakers. It is a good idea to unscrew the horn every once in a while and to blow out any accumulation that is visible.

The average 1926 radio set costs $80, according to an estimate based on the complete listing of all sets. The weight of the average set is 13 pounds. It contains five tubes, two stages of audio-frequency, two stages of radio-frequency and detector.

Air Cushions as Shock Absorbers for Receivers

Air cushions as shock absorbers for radio sets are among the most recent developments of radio engineers. They are supplied in sets of four and are made of a special grade of rubber securely vulcanized by a patented process and inflated without valves. It is claimed that the use of these cushions will eliminate vibrations, aid materially in undisturbed tuning, improve reception and reduce to a minimum microphonic noises. They insulate the set and prevent fine furniture from becoming scratched. They are quickly and easily installed and no fastening is required.

Only One Wire Necessary

The use of more than one wire in a receiving antenna is a useless waste of copper. Multi-wire antenna tend to make receivers less selective. With 536 radio broadcasting stations in the United States, selec-

THE BEST IN MOTOR CAR BODIES

The finest of the new cars in all price classes have now been announced—Cadillac Buick, Chevrolet, Oakland, Oldsmobile and Pontiac.

All offer vastly greater values than ever before in motor car history.

All register amazing advantages in performance and ease and economy of operation.

But the greatest factor of their new glory is described in a single phrase—Body by Fisher.

Here is their supreme beauty—setting absolutely new standards in charm of design and interior fitting.

Here are unequalled factors of safety which add so much to your comfort and confidence.

Here are exclusive conveniences and niceties which do, indeed, make the car with Body by Fisher superior in its class.

No matter what mechanical developments may allure you, it is the body of your car with which you live most intimately—that is why the General Motors units, makers of the best of the new cars in all price classes, point so proudly to the emblem—Body by Fisher.

With the finest of the market to choose from there is no reason why you should deny yourself the greater safety, beauty and comfort which only a Body by Fisher can give.

African Natives Show No Fear of Crocodiles

Crocodiles and natives fraternize in the most friendly manner at Tumu, a village on the Gold Coast of Africa.

Princess Marie Louise, cousin of King George of Great Britain, tells about the good feeling between the crocodiles and Gold Coasters in travel letters, which have just been published.

The natives regard crocodiles as the "familiar spirit" of man and never injure them. In fact, they believe that any person who injures or kills a crocodile also may be killed.

"We watched village women wandering about among crocodiles in the village pool quite undisturbed," says the princess. "The women seemed to have no fear. They even pushed the crocodiles aside if they got in their way. The natives fill their pots and bathe among the reptiles without the slightest fear."

Lions Stalk the Highways

In East Africa the drought has been so severe that wild animals have invaded the towns and settlements in search of water. At Nairobi the inhabitants have only to stroll a short distance out of town to encounter herds of buffalo and rhinos and it is a frequent occurrence to meet all manner of big game, including lions, on the roads leading from one town to another.

Lucky Man Gets All

A tontine agreement is an arrangement by which a group of persons share certain benefits or moneys on such terms that in the event of the death or default of one or more members these shares are divided among the remaining members, until one person has the whole amount or advantage. In most modern insurance tontines the whole goes to those remaining in the group on the expiration of the tontine period.
